Georgian Refuses Apology Student Paper Threatens To Quit

In a special one-page issue put out last night, the staff of The Georgian, student newspaper at Sir George Williams College, threatened to cease publication of the weekly paper if there was any cut made in the paper's budget.

The Evening Faculty Students Society started the rumpus when the executive objected to The Georgian staff holding a party the same night as a college dance. Although it was pointed out to The Georgian staff that to hold the party the same night as a scheduled dance was contrary to the constitution, the editor-in-chief pointed out plans had gone too far to cancel the party. Further, he said, the rule was in the sight constitution and they knew nothing about it.

Tuesday night editor-in-chief Chris McFarland was informed by the executive of the Evening Faculty Students Society that he would have to submit a written apology before December 6 or have financial backing for The Georgian withdrawn.

No Apology
"I definitely will not apologize," Chris McFarland told The Daily just before deadline last night. "The whole cause of the rumpus is petty," he said, "but the disturbing thing is that pressure is being put on The Georgian to say something which it goes no reason to say. This method could be applied to prevent us from printing any story which the evening executive objected to."

An interesting development in the affair, a Sir George Williams student official pointed out, is the fact that the executive of the Students Undergraduate Society (day division) has unanimously supported The Georgian and censured the executives of the night division of the complicated student government of the YMCA-operated college.

The whole issue could mean a split between the day division and the night division, it was indicated, for plans are being laid to turn out a day division paper if the night division withdraws its financial support. Officials of the night division organization could not be reached for comment.

James in Manhattan; Sound for Delhi Talks

Principal James arrived in New York yesterday, completing the first leg of a journey that will take him to India next week where he will attend the India-American conference in Delhi.

He will be one of six university presidents going to India for this conference but he will be the only delegate that is not an American. The American group will meet with representative Indians to discuss matters of mutual interest to the two countries. The conference will meet for ten days, after which Dr. James goes to Lahore in Pakistan for other meetings and visits to universities in that country. It is expected that he will be back at McGill for the opening of the second term.

His Excellency S. K. Kirpalani, the High Commissioner for India, paid Dr. James a visit.

Debating Conference Resolution Announced

"Resolved that Capital Punishment be abolished" is the resolution chosen for the McGill Debating Conference which is to take place on Friday and Saturday, December 9 and 10. John Pepper, chairman of the Conference, has asked that all interested debaters submit their names to the Tuck Shop. No applications will be accepted after Friday, Dec. 2.

The Debating Conference, newly begun this year, is for the purpose of giving novice and intermediate debaters the experience of participating in tournament debating without actually opposing expert debaters. Only McGill students will be participating in the Conference which will extend over two days.

The debating will be carried on in the Arts Building on Friday and Saturday. It will be followed by a general conference of the debaters, judges and other interested debaters. Judges for the debates will be from the Montreal Board of Trade.

Archer to Participate in Debate at McGill

DEBATING
The news has just been received from Osgoode Hall, Toronto, that Bill Archer, a former McGill student, will participate in the McGill-Osgoode Hall Debate in Moyse Hall on Saturday at 8:30.

Archer was active in student affairs while he was at McGill. Besides being the president and founder of the Prog. Con. Club, he represented McGill in numerous debates, including the Inter-University Debating League. He later participated with Sinclair of McGill in the Canadian Intercollegiate finals.

Teaming with Archer will be D. E. Foord, while McGill will be represented by Ted Eggeason and Isadore Rosenfeld.

This debate is open to the student body, Graduates and Faculty of McGill.

women while collared blouses. A charge of $3.50 must be paid at time of sitting. Biography cards must be returned within 4 days.

Friday is the final deadline for graduates' pictures. No pictures will be taken after this date.

Roberts Discusses Racial Problems of South Africa

Toronto. — (CUP) — Mr. Roberts, High Commissioner of South Africa, said in a talk to the International Relations Club here that there has been hostility amongst the various groups in South Africa for hundreds of years and that party politics has always fostered and even found it necessary, to stir up hatred.

He said that South Africans are always looking to the past, never to the future, making it easy to stir up hatreds by reference to old injustices. Unfortunately, it is the people who did not even take part in these injustices who are most bitter now.

Long Race Conflict

Mr. Roberts referred to the long conflict between the Dutch Afrikaners and the British that culminated in the Boer War. Governors who did not understand the problems of South Africa and the British forcibly taking control of the Dutch free states upon discovery of gold and diamonds caused much of the old conflict. However, he felt that South Africans today are beginning to work together to build up the country. Mr. Roberts dwelt most thoroughly with the Negro problems in South Africa. There are over eight million Africans in the country compared to two and a half million Europeans. Without these natives the gold and diamond mines could not be run. However except for the Hottentots who readily accepted Western methods and have become artisans for the most part, the Bantus and Zulus who comprise the rest of the native population are still wholly primitive, and although related they cannot be kept together because of fatal hostilities.

Witch Doctors Rule
"Even when urbanized they won't use doctors or dentists, but are still ruled by witch doctors. In addition these people are divided into four main groups and have seven main languages, making them extremely difficult to deal with."

Mr. Roberts explained that foreigners tend to overlook the difficulties with which the government is faced. He feels the government

Examinations To Be Held for Foreign Office

The International Relations Club has announced that it will elect a certain number of students to the Canadian Institute of International Affairs.

The C.I.I.A. has branches all across Canada and its members have the opportunity of hearing off the record talks by eminent speakers familiar with various aspects of international affairs. They are also entitled to the C.I.I.A. quarterly. Student membership fee is $3.00.

Students who wish to be nominated to the institute are asked to leave their names, addresses, phone number and faculty with George at the Tuck Shop in the McGill Union. Applicants must be members or prospective members of the McGill I.R.C.

It was also announced that examinations for admittance to the Foreign Office as Foreign Service Officers, Grade 2, will be held some time in January. Students who would like to try these exams are asked to communicate with Paul Ollivier at PL 4732 or, if more convenient, to give their names at the next meeting of the club on Wed., Dec. 8th.

Forum Debate To be Held On Air Tonite

"Does the present university education equip the modern woman for future life" will be the subject of the student-professor radio forum tonight over CFCF at 10:30 p.m.

Dr. Joyce Hemlow and Kayo Little will uphold the affirmative while John Pepper and Jim Cartier will take the negative. Dr. Hemlow is a professor in the English department at McGill while Kayo Little is President of the Women's Union at McGill.

On the opposing side, Jim Cartier is treasurer of the Arts & Science Undergraduate Society this year while John Pepper is in first year Law at McGill.

Boris Berbrier, director of the student-professor forums, told the Daily that he expects tonight's discussion to become quite heated if the opposing sides take firm stands. Not a formal debate, the radio forum permits more open and free discussion of the topic under consideration, he said.

These student-professor radio forums are presented weekly over CFCF every Thursday evening and are sponsored by the McGill Debating Union Society.

Choral Tickets Go on Sale Tomorrow

First advance ticket sales will be held on Friday for the Choral Society's concert "Sing at Christmas." From ten a.m. until two p.m., tickets will be on sale to all students, in the lobby of the Arts Building. They are priced at 75 cents each.

The concert, which will be held in the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium on Saturday, December 17th, at 8:30, will be conducted by Gifford Mitchell. Mr. Mitchell has been the Choral Society's conductor since its revival five years ago.

There is only one celesta in Montreal at the present time, and the Choral Society has been able to secure it for their concert. "A Carol," a modern Christmas song, and "The Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy" will be featured with this seldom-heard instrument.

Carleton Scribe Risks Life for Forty Cents

Ottawa. — (CUP) — Carleton came close to losing a promising young Journalism student Friday when Johnny Drewery, while making a parachute jump, injured his head on the wing of the aircraft.

He made the jump to collect a 40-cent bet from a member of the Carleton staff. The accident occurred as Drewery bailed out. He slammed his head against the wing-strut, and bounced into the slip-stream, where he spent a few seconds "behind the eight-ball."

TUBBY CLAYTON, well-known founder padre of Toc H, with "Chippie", Vicar of All Hallows Berkynghechirch by the Tower of London, the Rev. P. B. Clayton inspired the foundation of the "Winant Volunteers", who work each summer in the East End of London, and the "Sir William Osler Associates" now being organized in Canada.

Volunteers Sought For London Work

Twenty-five volunteers to work in the shattered East End of London, organizing games, physical training, camping trips and doing Red Cross and welfare work among all sections of the population during the summer months are being sought in universities across Canada.

Dr. Joyce Hemlow and Kayo Little will uphold the affirmative while John Pepper and Jim Cartier will take the negative. Dr. Hemlow is a professor in the English department at McGill while Kayo Little is President of the Women's Union at McGill.

The Osler Associates movement resulted from a visit to Montreal last September by the Rev. P. B. "Tubby" Clayton, C. H. M.C., Vicar of All Hallows Berkynghechirch by the Tower, who organized a similar movement in the United States known as the "Winant Volunteers."

Famous simply as Tubby Clayton, the vicar founded Toc H during World War I. As a padre during the war he founded Talbot House at Paperinghe in west Flanders in memory of Major Talbot, killed in action. It was a shrine and rest centre for troops and out of this developed the welfare work carried on by Toc H between the wars.

In 1947 Rev. Clayton made a six months tour of the United States waging a campaign to make it possible for him to rebuild his bombed church by the Tower of London. The late Ambassador John G. Winant lent his support to the campaign and the Winant Volunteers were named in his memory.

During the last two summers the Canadian Congress of Labor, so as to lend more prestige to the right-wing group.

Mr. Pare then said that raiding of one union by another, on the pretext of anti-communism, only results in losses for the workers. He quoted the example of the miners in the Porcupine gold fields of Northern Ontario. After the CCL raiders had effectively removed the power of the established union (United Mine, Mill, and Smelter Workers) the mineowners had no interest in negotiating with the workers at all. What the US proposed, said Mr. Pare, was that each union within the CIO should have the right to its own political opinions, and that the unions should organize the unorganized workers rather than ruining each others' strength.

Three Labor Club members were elected as delegates to the Rentals Train that will arrive in Ottawa today. The mass delegation, of about 200 people, has an appointment with the Hon. Douglas Abbott, where they will question him on the recent government order permitting rental increases.

Left Wing Union-CIO Strife Outlined for Labour Club

The position of the United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers of America in the current struggles going on within the Congress of Industrial Organization (CIO) and the Canadian Congress of Labor (CCL) was outlined by Mr. Jean Pare, vice president of the U.E.W., at a meeting of the Student Labor Club in the union, yesterday.

After tracing the history of the CIO, Mr. Pare said that his own union, the UE, which recently withdrew from the CIO, had had 456 of its American locals raided by right-wing unions in the last few years. He said that prior to the recent convention of the CIO, Mr. Philip Murray had refused all efforts to end raiding within the organization, so the electrical union left the convention. As far as Canada was concerned, Mr. Pare felt that the raiders, who have formed a separate union known as the International Union of Electrical Workers, would not get very far. He stated that the Canadian UE expects to be expelled from the

Hughes Says Religion Must Start in Home

"The home must take on a heavy part of the child's religious education," said Prof. John Hughes, Director of the Department of Education, at a regular meeting of the Canterbury Club yesterday. Prof. Hughes dealt with the topic "What is a Christian Education?"

"The basis of Christianity comes from the children whose parents gave them a Christian education," he said. The main part of the school's job is to teach the child the scriptures. We cannot dispense with the daily worship period. If we do, we have missed something of great value."

He mentioned that religious education comes into secular studies as well, not only in ordinary subjects but also in sports. "The child must learn the art of winning modestly and losing cheerfully."

"Education now is 'oversecularized,'" Prof. Hughes said. "We must re-establish religious education. It won't be an easy task, but it must be done if the school is to do its full share in educating the child."

"We must improve our relationships with our fellow-men," he said. "God made us brothers, and he intended that we should be one." He gave examples of the sinfulness of man, and mentioned that we have, however, a hope of salvation through the sacrifice of Jesus Christ.

During the question period he mentioned that he thought adult education would help a great deal, and that a sectarian school can do a fine job if it is not narrow.

Coffee to Be Served At Professors' Tea

Coffee will be a feature of the Professors' Tea to be held, this Sunday, December 4th, from 4-6 p.m. in the Union Reading Room.

The professors are enthusiastic, says Jacqueline Beaudoin, chairman, and these teas have been most successful in the past, especially in promoting student-professor relationships.

The following professors will be present: Dean Fieldhouse, Dean Solin, Professor Duthie, Professor Phelps, Professor Watkins, and Monsieur Rigault.

Frosh Tackle Juniors For Debating Title

Arts 1 will meet Arts 3 in a midterm championship debate today at noon. Both teams have won all their contests to date.

The topic under discussion is Resolved "that Canada Should support a plan for World Federal Government." The freshmen, represented by Danny Kingstone and George Blissett will uphold the affirmative against Lionel Lustgarten and Ammon Kahn.

All the debaters are experienced, the former having done much high school speaking while the latter have both debated here at McGill. The teams will meet each other at 1:00 p.m. in the New Room of the Union.

Final Figures Released by Blood Clinic

"I wish to thank all those students and faculty members who have contributed blood and helped organize and clean up the clinic," said Mrs. R. B. Shaw, director of the blood clinic yesterday as the clinic ended its drive at McGill.

"The next blood clinic is planned for March and we are looking forward to seeing both old and new blood donors then," she said.

109 volunteers gave their blood yesterday bringing the total for the second blood clinic's total up to 214. The total for the two clinics is 1028. MacDonald College contributed 108 donors and Dawson college 298.

Red & White Revue To Start Rehearsals

Bill Nichols, producer and director of the 1950 Red and White Revue announced yesterday that the first rehearsal of the show will be held tonight at 2 p.m. in the Union Ballroom.

Nichols said that he has contacted the choreographer for this year's production and that she will be in attendance tonight to make the final choice of chorines.

All members of the Revue are asked to be present as there will be a brief discussion of the Revue proper after which the opening rehearsal will be held.

Those who haven't been to previous castings or who haven't been allocated particular roles are asked to attend as the final cast will be chosen.

Students from Austria Visit Torontonians

Toronto, (CUP) — Thirty-one exuberant, stimulating university students from the other side of the Atlantic breezed into Toronto on Friday afternoon, and half an hour after their arrival were smiling and laughing with their new Canadian friends.

The smiles and laughs continued all week-end through a merry round of parties, dinners and receptions. The Austrians like Toronto, and paid our fair city a charming compliment. "It reminds me of Vienna in the winter," one of them remarked. Blue Sundays and all!

President Welcomes

There was a reception for the Austrians at the university, with President Smith welcoming the visitors. "As university students you belong to a great Republic," he said, "made up of all the universities of the world."

President Smith called the visitors carriers of "international goodwill" and said that this kind of visit from other parts of the world was the best "peace insurance" one could buy.

The Austrians put on a concert at Massey Hall Saturday night, and this was described as delightful by those who attended. From this one performance it was clear that the Austrians enjoyed singing and dancing, and their enthusiasm was caught by the audience. The spontaneity of the show was highlighted with performances of several of the troupe who were more than good. One young girl in particular won applause with her yodelling.

In return the Austrians were entertained by Toronto. During the weekend they were guests at several dinners in their honor, and a busy schedule was arranged with the aid of the many organizations who wanted to "do something" for the visitors.

Federal Aid to Education Brief by Nifcus Nears End

Manitoba. — (CUP) — The brief on Federal Aid to Education to be presented to the Royal Commission on National Development in the Arts, Letters and Sciences in January by the National Federation of Canadian University Students is nearing completion, NFCUS executive stated after their Montreal conference last week-end. The brief is being prepared in three different sections and will be presented by NFCUS president, Richie Love, when the so-called "culture commission" holds sessions in Halifax after Christmas.

One part of the brief, being prepared by the Dalhousie committee, sets forth the present scholarship situation in Canadian universities, and will establish the great need for increased aid to education. Previous NFCUS surveys have catalogued the scholarships now available to Canadian students.

The second portion of the brief is being drawn up by the UBC committee, and sets forth the need for aid to various national institutions and the arguments for Dominion aid to these bodies. Singled out as deserving of special aid are proposed national library, the National Film Board, national arts councils, and the proposed UNESCO Commission.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT: PART 1
Foreword

This is the first part of a two-part article on the organization of student government at McGill, written by Michael Ellwood, member of the finance committee of the Students' Executive Council. While The Daily carried a similar article in an early issue for the benefit of freshmen, it is felt that these articles would be of particular interest with council elections scheduled for December 7. The second part of the article, dealing with Athletics Board and the Students' Athletic Council, will appear in tomorrow's Daily.

It is felt by the S. E. C. that many members of the student body are unfamiliar with the jurisdiction of extra-curricular activities administered by the Students' Executive Council and the Students' Athletics Council.

All undergraduate students and partial students taking three or more courses are members of the Student Society, the governing body of which is the Students' Executive Council. The council is responsible for all the student activities carried on by the Students' Society and is the official spokesman for the student body to the university authorities, and to the public.

The Students' Athletics Council is the student organization responsible for the administration of the athletics program for men students subject to the university policy.

The women's athletics are controlled by a similar body, the McGill Women Students' Athletics Association Council.

Directly under the S. E. C. are the faculty undergraduate societies, each receiving one dollar per student to enable them to carry out any program the executive of the undergraduate society sees fit. By Article VIII, Sec. (1) of the Students' Society constitution, the undergraduate societies are regular committees of the S. E. C. and have direct representation to the council in that each faculty representative to the council is an "ex officio" member of his respective undergraduate society executive. The S. E. C. does not control the policy of any of these societies but reserves the right to audit their books periodically.

CONCERT BAND WANTED

We have just seen the close of a very successful football season. Not only did our team rise to great heights, but the attitude of the student body has revealed a spirit which hasn't been seen on the campus for many years. Along with these changes, a great surprise was the improvement shown by the McGill band. This has been brought about mainly because of the energetic and competent leadership of its new bandmaster Morley Calvert, along with the co-operation and hard work of the band members.

Most students want a good band at McGill — a band they will be proud to have appear at football games, hockey games and other functions. But in order to have a good and functioning band, it must be organized to practice and play during the full college year. Morley Calvert has suggested the formation of a university concert band — the first of its kind in Canada. This idea would not only keep the band in working order throughout the year, but if successful would bring more fame to the university.

For the first time in many years the band members themselves have shown real enthusiasm and initiative towards a bigger and better band. It seems therefore, that now is the time to act. The band must have the support of the student body and its elected representatives. It must have some financial backing. To attain this, responsibility for the band must be assumed by the S. E. C. Because we feel that the student body would be behind the formation of this new concert band, we challenge the candidates for the forthcoming S. E. C. elections to declare themselves on this issue.

The band has made some progress this year into a fine group, worthy of the name of McGill, but without support and financial backing it will lapse again into a farce of which nobody will be proud. Next year we are going to have a championship football team. Let's have the band to go with it!

Letters to The Editor
APPRECIATION FROM DAWSON

Editor, The Daily:

The following is the text of a letter sent to Dick Messier, President of the McGill Arts & Science Undergraduate Society:

"This year, because of the decreased enrollment of the science students at Dawson College, the present executive found it impossible to function as in previous years on the one dollar that each science student pays to his undergraduate society. The executive therefore requested the McGill ASUS for a grant, sufficient to complete a successful program for the year. The McGill ASUS responded with wonderful generosity. I would therefore like to thank the McGill ASUS on behalf of all the men of the Dawson College Arts & Science Undergraduate Society for assisting us so admirably during this emergency."

Cye Rosen, President, Arts & Science Undergraduate Society, Dawson College.

Thanks
Editor, The Daily:

I would like to take this opportunity of expressing thanks to Mendy Eldenger, Jean L. Heureux and Joe Moreau all of Dentistry 1 for their generosity in giving blood to a friend in Royal Victoria Hospital.

Adult Stage
Editor, The Daily:

In reply to a letter written by Harold Bergen, Commerce I, which appeared in The Daily, I would like to say this:

By the time a person reaches the college level, he should have reached, or at least be nearing, the adult stage. He should be starting to realize his social responsibilities to the community; he should be doing his best to accept these responsibilities, if only in a small way.

While there are some students at McGill who cannot spare one cent, there are few who have not sufficient income to spare a dollar or two for a most worthy cause. It

A Daily Soul Meets
Dr. Locke And Free Love
by Larry Capelovitch

Having decided to interview Professor J. Z. Locke of the Philosophy department, The Daily was perturbed and saddened when the news of his death was made public. Wondering what could cause an intellectual like Professor Locke to end his own life by keeping his head submerged in a bathtub of ice-water, The Daily regretted that the interview had not taken place.

Last Tuesday, about midnight, while sitting in the reading room of the Union, I thought of the time the Professor had lectured on "Life — the bitter with the bitter." I put down my Plato and began to think. My mind was functioning, but a numbness settled over me as I withdrew, so to speak, into the soul. Having completely subdued the passions of the body and no longer conscious of the body, waves began to reach my soul as if another was attempting to communicate with me. Recognizing Professor Locke's soul coming in through the wall, I sent thought waves back. (This is the method of communication in the world of Absolutes that the souls inhabit)

"How are you feeling, Professor Locke?" I thought.

"I'm not too badly off as yet but I do not 'feel' any more," he answered. "My time — that is just a figure of thought now, you understand — has been pretty much taken up with the trial and now I'm waiting"

"What for, Sir?"

"Very few souls reach heaven. Philosophers have the best chance. When my trial ended the panel floated to the room in which the decision is to be reached. I asked for leave to wander."

"Where does the interview take place?"

"There is a No Soul's Land between the Celestial and Terrestrial planes and there all men are judged."

"Professor Locke, what type of life should we lead?"

"Well," he thought in a hesitant manner, "if heaven is to be your destination, be a philosopher. We spend so much time defining, questioning and hair-splitting that we have no time to sin. We scoff at the world where ignorant parasites crawl blindly about, accomplishing nothing, going nowhere, until they die."

He was thinking loudly now, but he stopped and raised his mind. Thoughts from another channel were in the room but I couldn't reach them.

"Excuse me," the Professor apologized, "but I must return. The panel has reached a decision."

"But Professor," I thought wildly, "why did you commit suicide? What was death like?"

I was too late. His soul was gone.

It was morning when my numbness left me and full consciousness returned. I staggered down the stairs. After a few cups of coffee to calm my nerves, I went down to The Daily. The story created quite a stir. There was much speculation as to whether contact could be re-established, but so far I have been unsuccessful in all attempts.

Professor Locke's last work, The Ethical Logic of Free Love, will be published posthumously.

Cathie Nicoll, Visiting Missionary
by MILTON WINSTON
Senior Staff Writer

"Twenty-one years ago there were just two member-groups of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship," declared Cathie Nicoll, a visiting Fellowship worker. "Today, in Canada alone there are 18, and in North America between fifty and sixty."

Cathie was born in Chefoo, North China, the daughter of a missionary father. She is now touring the difficult camp, where she is of great help to the existing I.V.C.F. organizations.

Last year Cathie went to Jamaica to help found a Fellowship in the University of West Indies. The college had just opened then, and had an enrollment of only 37 freshmen.

WORK IN EUROPE

"There is a great deal of Fellowship work in Europe, Latin America, and Japan. Even in Shanghai, now communist controlled, work is being carried on with an amazing amount of religious freedom."

"The I.V.C.F.," she informed me, "began in 1877 at Cambridge University. From there it spread to the European colleges. The British students sold their sports equipment to send Dr. Howard Guinness to Canada, because they felt there was a tremendous need for I.V.C.F. in the Universities of the British Commonwealth."

Cathie Nicoll is a stately, white-haired woman with a pleasing easiness of speech. She came to Toronto in 1929. In 1930 she joined the Fellowship staff, and has since served in every province in Canada.

CHRISTIAN FAITH

"Our aim," she emphasized, "is to help students realize a personal faith in their Christian ideals, and to relate their knowledge to all of life. Many have no personal faith, and it is our privilege to lead them to a sincere and personal knowledge of the Christian way of life."

The Inter Varsity Christian Fellowship at McGill is located on Peel street above Sherbrooke. It is not a closed club, but is open to all. They hold Bible study groups, open meetings where they sing hymns, and social events during the year.

Cathie hopes that many people across the world today will say that their life decisions were shaped by the Fellowship. It is probably very significant that scores of students are preparing for the mission field. At one seminary graduation of a major Canadian denomination, some nineteen out of twenty-three graduating students gave public recognition of the part that the Inter Varsity Christian Fellowship had played in their choice of the ministry.

"The finances of this work," Cathie said, "are being paid by Christian friends across the continent. Our work is gaining momentum in every country. Through their generosity many people have been able to live the saying—Seek Ye First The Kingdom Of God And His Righteousness."

Biewald Leads Phys Eds to 34-15 Win

In the first of two Intramural Basketball games last night the powerful Phys. Ed. 1 squad edged the Plumbers of Engineering 34-15. The odd situation of this hard fought game was that only two men from each team figured in the scoring column. Hank Sliwka, of Inter Football fame, was high man of the evening with 22 points, Hal Biewald netting the remaining twelve. For the losers Vidr and Chamberlin each scored six marks. In the other fixture Phys. Ed. 4 downed Grads 2-0 when the latter appeared with only two men. It should be noted that teams defaulting games lose 30 points for their faculty. A team defaulting two games must automatically withdraw from the league. D.H.

Potent Carabins Crew Prepared for Redmen

By FRED GOTTHEIL

Things don't look too bright for the Campbell crew as the Redmen get ready for their Saturday tilt against University of Montreal.

Word from the U. of M. camp has it that the orange and blue squad are ready to go with almost their full power behind them.

Their forward lines will see Flynn, Charest and Day on the first line. Emblem will centre Mojon and Hotte, while Perrault, Brunaut and Vernier will combine to form the three trios.

Back on the defence the Frenchmen have Laperriere, Garriepe and Bouchard, all of whom played excellent hockey for the squad last year and rookie Landriault who shows great promise on the blue-line.

Goalie Auger will be looking for his second shut-out of the season, garnering his first, last Saturday, when the Carabins blanked the Toronto Blues 5-0 at the Verdun Auditorium. He's a great goal-tender and will give the Redmen lots of trouble when they clash this Saturday.

U. of M.'s Bourassa, a smooth piece of machinery who has been operating in the Intercollegiate league for the past two years, will be missing the game due to a knee injury he received in the Toronto game last Saturday. Bourassa got the injury after being on the ice for only thirty seconds. The Sudbury boy, who starred on the forward line for the Carabins last year will be out for at least two months, stated coach Art Therrien.

Once again the U. of M. squad is faced with the same trouble they had last year, that being they do not have any right hand shooters on their forward line or on their defence. This peculiar situation forces Therrien to use left hand shooters on the right wing posts.

Although the team this year seems to be just as good as the squad which gave them the Intercollegiate championship last year, they are not in as good shape as last year's edition because of the Bicycle Derby which interfered with many of the team's practices.

In their five exhibition games played, the U. of M. squad came through three times and were on the short end of the score on the two remaining occasions.

In these exhibition games, Therrien dressed four forward lines and as a result the players did not have too much time on the ice. "It will take a few weeks to round the team in shape," commented coach Therrien.

At present the squad is practicing three times a week as compared to five times last year. The Carabin coach went on to say "the team is doing much better than I expected" as once more the U. of M. is rated as the team to beat.

Water Poloists Engage YMHA At Legion Pool

The McGill Water Polo team will continue their C.A.P.A. league schedule tonight when they meet the powerful Y.M.H.A. seven at the Legion Pool.

The boys will be newly led when they take to the water as Don Walter has unanimously been elected captain of the team. Don was the star of last year's crew and was an important factor in McGill coping the Intercollegiate Championship last year.

The squad has a double purpose in mind tonight. First, they want to avenge a 12-4 defeat that they suffered at the hands of the "Y" last week. Secondly, as the Intercollegiate season opens this Saturday, the game will offer good practice in preparation for the tilt against Toronto.

The game tonight will see practically the same line-up as lost to the Y last week. However, due to a slight case of sniffles, Gerry Cooper will probably not see action.

Jim Ross will probably see action at left wing with Don Walter at centre and Male Macdonald at right wing. Skip Onesti, who heads the team scoring with nine goals will be at half. Hal Corrigan and Joe Dickstein will do the rearguard chores and either Ballou or Hops will mind the nets.

Ideal Prof. Is Revealed by
'Manitoban'

The University of Manitoba's student newspaper, "The Manitoban" states that the ideal professor should possess the following qualities.

1. The professor would be a young man and should have a thorough knowledge of his subject and should be adequately prepared to teach it.
2. He should possess a sense of humor and should laugh with the class; he should also laugh with the class when they laugh at him.
3. He must recognize the student as an individual both in and out of the class, rather than merely as a name on the class list.
4. He must come to his class fully prepared, knowing what he is going to say. He should say it in an interesting manner without extensive reference to notes, and should clarify and illustrate the important material from the readings.

5. He must express enthusiasm and must like his subject so that his enthusiasm is transferred to his students.

6. The good professor attempts to correlate his course with the world of reality and should use up-to-date examples.

7. He uses simple, clear language—rather than language that attempts to impress the student with his large vocabulary.

8. He treats the student as his equal and should recognize that occasionally the student, too, can be right and can express ideas that are sound but different from those of the professor.

9. His class is friendly and is conducted in an informal, democratic manner.

10. His office door is open to students for help in their subject, or for help in personal problems.

ment is doing more today to help these people than ever before, considering that many politicians continue to breed intolerance.

Not Enough Teachers

A terrific demand for schooling has been created but because of a lack of teachers and schools, there is much overcrowding. "It is impossible to accommodate at present all children who wish to go to school. If we train all the natives who have gone to school, we would still not be able to satisfy teacher demand by 1960," Roberts explained.

Money that could go toward education cannot be fully used because of a lack of schools and teachers. However the Bantu school children are being better fed under the new government. In addition an educational system is being developed that is more according to the traditions of the natives. It has been discovered that Western education and culture cannot be forced on these people as has been tried in the past. Yet Mr. Roberts added these peoples' minds are hopelessly divided and present an almost impossible task in teaching the elements of cleanliness and justice.

Still the government is spending 25,300,000 on education a year. The object is to help these people become self-sufficient and to be able to make a contribution to the country. There are district officers in charge of helping with local problems, and schools provide a basic education and training in some vocational skills. Missionaries and church schools are doing particularly fine work in this field. Books are being printed in the various languages for use in the schools now.

The natives although comprising the majority of the population are incapable of having the vote. However South Africa with its limited resources is trying to formulate an alleviating policy, but it must take a long time to make South Africa more of a democracy, Roberts concluded.

"At just what bookstore did you buy your engineering supplies?"

Federal Aid—P. 1

the MANITOBA, now studying at Toronto, is preparing the third part of NFCUS' submission. He will compile information on education aid in other countries, including Britain, Australia and the U.S. Britain now has a very extensive government scholarship and grant system; Australia's Universities Commission is now providing living grants to needy students, and the National Union of Australian University Students is now asking that the government make a direct grant to all colleges on a basis of enrollment.

The United States has established the Fulbright scholarship system, under which European nations owing the U.S. war debts can repay them in scholarships to American students abroad. NFCUS is hoping to get similar legislation introduced in Canada, and it has been established that some European countries would be very glad to repay their debts in this way.

The other part of the NFCUS request will be that the Dominion establish a substantial scholarship system for Canadian students who remain on their own camp. This method is also being suggested by the United States National Student Association.

The Federal Aid Brief, the largest political action ever undertaken by the Federation, will, it is assumed, establish NFCUS as a powerful and representative student voice.

African Instability
Slows Peanut Scheme

London.—Ignorance of native populations is a big stumbling block in developing East Africa, a British government agency reports.

In Tanganyika many Africans refer to Kongwa as "London" and some think that the British king lives there.

Kongwa, in central Tanganyika, is one of three principal areas earmarked for peanut production under Britain's so-called "groundnuts" scheme.

In its first report on the plan, designed to help relieve a world shortage of fats and oils, the government's Overseas Food Corporation acknowledged liabilities of more than £23,000,000 ($71,300,000) but said the project will not be abandoned despite early frustrations.

One difficulty about African labor, it said, is that unskilled workers often stay on the job for a few months, long enough to raise money for their local taxes, and then go home. At the same time others would walk hundreds of miles to get a job with the corporation.

British officials, following a directive to provide an outlet for the "ambitious and capable" African, are trying to establish a settled force by building villages in which each African family will have a piece of land.

Not all the difficulties are of the human variety. The report referred to telephone and telegraph systems being constantly interrupted by the "depredations" of wild animals, particularly giraffes.

Blitzers Alkis
Bearcats Win
Hockey Tilts

Three floor hockey tilts were played yesterday at the gym with the Odds and Sods, Bearcats and Blitzers victories in their tries.

The Bearcats and the Commerce 4 clashed in the initial game with the Bearcats handing a 3-1 defeat to the Commercemen. It was a rough and tough match, one of the best played this season, and was anyone's game up to the last whistle.

In the first period, the Bearcats put on the pressure and gave the Commerce goalers plenty of work. Both teams had good passing and the defence played well keeping the puck mostly in the centre zone.

Gosselin opened the scoring early in the second period, putting the Bearcats ahead 1-0. The score remained the same until Carthy of the Comm. 4 tied the game on a breakaway play, drawing the goaler completely out of the nets.

In the last frame the Bearcats scored twice, with Lapointe and Hoare accounting for themarkers, making the final score 3-1.

In the second tilt played, the Odds and Sods came through on the upper end of a 7-3 score downing the H.A. crew. Filiatrault was the big gun for the winners plying the team with a pair of markers. Currie, Fisher, McKellar, Krut and Taylor each tallied singles, giving the victors their seven points. Mitchell, Valois and Pounder were the goal-getters for the H.A.s.

The Blitzers were awarded the victory in their match with the Alkis, although they dropped a 7-2 score to the latter.

The Alkis, an Arts and Science squad, dressed and used a player belonging to the Phys. Ed. department. Al Copnick, captain of the Blitzers, made the protest.—F.G.
